ELIZABETH II

1964 CHAPTER 1

An Act to make provision for the maintenance of the private roads and footpaths on the estate known as the Wentworth Estate in the urban district of Egham and the rural district of Bagshot in the county of Surrey; and for other purposes. [31st July 1964]

WHEREAS pursuant to a lease and an option agreement each dated 9th March, 1923, and made between Ada Constance Beatrice Cabrera of the one part and W. G. Tarrant Limited, a private company registered under the Companies Act, 1908, of the other part, the greater portion of an estate known as Wentworth Estate situate partly in the urban district of Egham and partly in the rural district of Bagshot in the county of Surrey was acquired, as to part, by Walter George Tarrant and, as to the remainder of that portion, by the said company for development as a golf course and residential estate:

And whereas Wentworth Estates Limited (hereinafter in this Act referred to as "the Company") are a private company registered under the Companies Act, 1929, and were formed in the year 1931 for purposes which included the acquisition of the whole of the estate and to continue its development as aforesaid and the parts of the estate formerly owned by Walter George Tarrant and W. G. Tarrant Limited, as well as the remaining parts of the estate, were conveyed to the Company accordingly:

And whereas in the year 1943 the share capital of the Company was acquired by Sir Lindsay Parkinson and Co. Limited of which the Company then became and still are a wholly-owned subsidiary:

and whereas the greater part of the estate has been disposed of and the development of the estate is nearly completed:

and whereas by virtue of covenants entered into by the Company or their predecessors in title the Company are now liable towards the owners of certain properties on the estate (including, in some cases, the lighting) of the roads and for the maintenance of certain of the roads on the estate and by virtue of other covenants entered into by the purchasers of land on the estate provision was made for contributions by the purchasers to the maintenance; the terms of the covenants indicate that in most of the cases the contributions are to be assessed on a basis of an annual rate in the pound calculated by reference to the yearly value of the property (which was originally specified as one shilling in the pound) and in the other cases that the contributions are to be calculated in one or other of the following the payment of a fixed annual sum;

the payment of a fixed annual sum until a house or other building has been erected on the land, and thereafter of contributions assessed on the basis of an annual rate in the pound on the same basis as in the majority of the cases;

the payment of the whole or part of the cost of maintaining some or all of the estate roads;

and whereas at a later date doubts arose as to the enforceability of the covenants against successors in title of the original owners and in some cases the contributions required by the covenants have not been paid:

and whereas in order to meet the increasing costs of maintenance provision has been made in the later conveyances for increasing contributions of two shillings in the pound:

and whereas the new valuation lists which came into force on 1st January 1963, have made substantial increases in the assessments on the estate and this has widened the disparity in contributions made by the owners of such properties as those paying the higher and those paying the lower and whereas to correct the resulting inequity it is expedient to vary the obligations under the existing covenants to make provision towards the costs so incurred in some cases on the basis of an annual rate in the pound and in other cases on the basis of two shillings in the pound and of the yearly value of a property there should be an obligation on all the owners of such properties to pay a uniform rate in the pound of such an amount as will be necessary to ensure that the estate roads and footpaths are properly maintained and lighted:

And whereas it is expedient that the Company should be absolved from the responsibilities of maintaining the said roads and footpaths and that those responsibilities should be redefined and made of general application and transferred to a committee of the residents on the estate to be represented:

And whereas it is expedient to constitute such a committee and to make such provision with respect to their powers and duties, including the duty of assessing and levying the rate hereinbefore referred to, as is in this Act provided:

And whereas it is also expedient to continue the liability of those owners of property on the estate who are under covenants to contribute towards the cost of maintaining the estate roads or any of them by making payments of fixed annual amounts or, if calculated on some other basis, on a basis which is not related to the yearly value of the property and to authorise the committee instead of the Company to enforce that liability:

And whereas it is expedient that the other provisions contained in this Act should be enacted:

And whereas the purposes of this Act cannot be effected without the authority of Parliament:

May it therefore please Your Majesty that it may be enacted, and be it enacted, by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same as follows:—

—(1) As from the appointed day—

- (a) the committee shall to the exclusion of the Company be under a duty to maintain the estate roads but the committee shall not be required in any year to incur any expense in paying the cost of maintaining the estate roads in excess of the amount which can reasonably be applied by the committee pursuant to section 11 (Application of moneys) of this Act out of the road rate levied in that year and out of the amount of the special payments which are due in respect of that year;

(b) any liability with respect to injury or damage to person or property which may arise after that day from failure to maintain the estate roads shall be enforceable against the committee and not against the Company;

(2) Proceedings shall not be instituted against the committee to enforce the duty to maintain the estate roads imposed by paragraph (a) of the foregoing subsection except by the owner of a chargeable or special payment hereditament or by any other person being a person to whom the Company would have owed such a duty if this Act had not been passed.

(3) In an action against the committee in respect of damage resulting from their failure to maintain an estate road, it shall be a defence (without prejudice to any other defence or the application of the law relating to contributory negligence) to prove that the committee had taken such care as in all the circumstances was reasonably required to secure that the part of the estate road to which the action relates was not dangerous for traffic.

- (b) the standard of maintenance appropriate for a road of that character and used by such traffic;
- (c) the state of repair in which a reasonable person would have expected to find the estate road;
- (d) whether the committee knew, or could reasonably have been expected to know, that the condition of the part of the estate road to which the action relates was likely to cause danger to users of the estate road;
- (e) where the committee could not reasonably have been expected to repair that part of the estate road before the cause of action arose, what warning notices of its condition had been displayed;

but for the purposes of such a defence it shall not be relevant to prove that the committee had arranged for a competent person to carry out or supervise the maintenance of the part of the estate road to which the action relates unless it is also proved that the committee had given him proper instructions with regard to the maintenance of the estate road and that he had carried out the instructions.

(5) If any question arises between the committee and the owner of a chargeable hereditament or of a special payment hereditament as to whether the committee have failed to apply the whole or such part of the amount comprising the road rate levied in any year and the special payments due in respect of that year as is reasonably necessary to carry out such works as are required to comply with their obligations under the foregoing provisions of this section it shall be referred to arbitration.

5.—(1) As from the appointed day there shall be transferred by the Company to the committee without payment—

- (a) any estate road, road verge, bridge or open space on the estate in respect of which on the appointed day the following conditions are fulfilled:—
 - (i) it is vested in the Company;
 - (ii) rights of way over it have been granted to owners of properties on the estate; and
 - (iii) in the case of an open space it has been set aside for the general use and enjoyment of such owners and members of their households and is not required by the Company for development; and

(b) any plant, machinery, vehicle or article belonging to the Company and used by them exclusively for the maintenance of the estate roads.

(2) (a) The lands referred to in paragraph (a) of the foregoing subsection shall by virtue of this Act and without any further or other assurance vest in the committee in fee simple subject to all easements, rights, privileges, covenants and stipulations affecting the said lands so far as on the appointed day the same subsist or are capable of being enforced and except and reserving to the Company the easements, rights and privileges set forth in Part I of Schedule 2 to this Act.

(b) Notwithstanding the transfer of such lands to the committee under the foregoing subsection, it shall be lawful for the club on not more than fourteen days in any calendar year by the erection of barriers or by other means to close all or any of the estate roads or such part or parts thereof as they think fit for the purpose of excluding from the golf courses on the estate and its immediate environs persons other than those whose admission is permitted by the club and the club may demand and collect money from any person so permitted as a consideration for such admission:

Provided that the powers of this subsection shall not extend so as to enable the club to exclude from any part of the estate or to demand money from the occupier of a property thereon, a member of his household or a person bona fide resorting thereto.

(c) In this subsection, the expression "the club" means Wentworth Club Limited or other the owners for the time being of the golf courses on the estate.

(3) The provisions of Part II of Schedule 2 to this Act shall have effect with respect to the transfer to the committee of the liability to maintain the estate roads.

(4) Any question which may arise under this section between the Company and the committee shall be determined by arbitration.

6.—(1) For the purpose of raising moneys to meet the expenses for which the committee are liable by virtue of section 4 road rate. (Maintenance of estate roads) of this Act and to make reasonable provision both for administrative expenses and for contingencies the committee may levy on the owners of the chargeable hereditaments a rate to be known as "the road rate":

Power to levy
Provided that in any case in which provision is made in the original conveyance for no contribution to be made towards the expense of maintaining the estate roads until a house or other building has been erected on the hereditament and the hereditament has then been separately assessed for rating purposes, no road rate shall be payable in respect of the hereditament in respect of any year in which that provision has effect.

(2) For the purposes of this Act a chargeable hereditament shall be any hereditament forming part of the estate (other than an estate road) in respect of which the following conditions are fulfilled:—

(a) the original conveyance purports to grant to the purchaser of the hereditament and his successors in title a right of passage over the estate roads or any of them;

(b) either—

(i) the original conveyance was entered into before the passing of this Act and the person who purchased the hereditament from the Company entered into a covenant in the original conveyance (howsoever that covenant was worded and whether or not enforceable by the Company against subsequent purchasers) to contribute towards the whole or any part of the cost incurred in maintaining the estate roads or any of those roads; or

(ii) the original conveyance was entered into after the passing of this Act and no provision was made therein for relieving the owner of the liability to pay the road rate; and

(c) the obligation imposed by such a covenant as is referred to in sub-paragraph (i) of the last foregoing paragraph is expressed as a liability to pay a rate assessed on the yearly value (howsoever expressed) of the hereditament conveyed.

(3) In any case where after the passing of this Act land forming part of the estate is sold by the Company no provision shall be made in the original conveyance of that land which would have the effect of relieving the owner of a hereditament which apart from that provision would be a chargeable hereditament of the liability to pay the road rate payable under this Act unless the provision has been approved by the committee but the approval of the committee to such a provision shall not be unreasonably withheld and any question as to whether or not the approval has been unreasonably withheld shall be determined by arbitration.

7.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section the road rate levied in any year shall not exceed a rate of one shilling and pence in the pound.

(2) If in the relevant year—

(a) new valuation lists have not come into force for both of the rating areas in which the estate is situate; and

(b) the revenue which can be obtained from levying a road rate at the maximum rate after taking into account the amount which it is reasonable to suppose will be received by way of special payments is insufficient to enable the committee to meet the expenses which they are in pursuance of this Act required or empowered to meet and to make reasonable provision for reserves;

the committee may during the period beginning with the year next following the relevant year and ending with the year in which the new valuation lists are brought into force increase the maximum rate by such percentage as the committee may think fit not exceeding the average of the amounts per cent. (if any) by which the costs of construction materials and of wages in the building trade (as shown by the indices published by the Board of Trade or by any indices which may be substituted therefor) have increased during the previous five years.

(3) In this section the expression "the relevant year" means the year 1968 or any fifth subsequent year.

8.—(1) Every road rate shall be levied in respect of a year commencing on 1st January and shall be levied at a uniform rate in the pound calculated on the net annual value of each chargeable hereditament appearing in the valuation list in force on that date.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this section no road rate shall be levied in any year unless the following provisions of this section have been complied with.

(3) Before fixing the rate poundage at which the road rate is to be levied in any year the committee shall prepare an estimate of the expense of the works on the estate roads which it is proposed to carry out in that year and of the amount (if any) which it is proposed to carry to the reserve fund.

(4) In the year preceding that for which it is proposed to levy a road rate the committee shall in the case of the year 1964 not later than 1st December and in the case of any subsequent year not later than 1st October publish in a local newspaper circulating in the locality of the estate a notice—

(a) specifying the works proposed to be carried out, the estimated expense of those works and any amount which it is proposed to carry to the reserve fund;

- (b) specifying the rate poundage at which it is proposed to levy the road rate in the following year; and
- (c) stating that, within a period of six weeks from the date of the publication of the notice any owner of a chargeable hereditament or a special payment hereditament may by notice to the committee object to the said proposals on any of the following grounds:—
 - (i) that the works proposed in the estimate (or any of them) are either insufficient or more than sufficient;
 - (ii) that the estimate for the works is excessive; or
 - (iii) that the provision made for reserve is either insufficient or excessive.

(5) If before the expiration of the six weeks referred to in the foregoing subsection twenty or more owners of chargeable hereditaments or special payment hereditaments give notice to the committee of their objection in accordance with the said subsection and such objections are not subsequently withdrawn the determination of the rate poundage shall be referred to arbitration.

(6) If by reason of an objection being made under the last foregoing subsection the rate poundage to be levied for any year has not been fixed in the case of the year 1965 by 28th February, 1965, and in the case of any subsequent year by 31st December in the preceding year the committee may levy an interim rate at a rate poundage not exceeding the proposed rate poundage of which notice has been given or the rate poundage which was last levied (whichever is the less).

(7) If the rate poundage as subsequently approved or determined by arbitration is—

- (a) more than the interim rate poundage levied by the committee under the last foregoing subsection the committee may levy a further rate in the same year at a rate poundage not exceeding the difference between the interim rate poundage and the rate poundage so approved or determined; or
- (b) less than the interim rate poundage so levied, then the amount of the excess revenue so obtained by the committee shall be taken into account when fixing the rate poundage for the following year.

9.—(1) The amount of the road rate payable in respect of any year shall be payable without any deduction whatsoever and be due on the date on which the demand therefor is served on the owner of the chargeable hereditament to which it relates.

Recovery of road rate.

(2) Arrears of any amount due in respect of the road rate may be recovered by the committee in any court of competent jurisdiction.

(3) In proceedings for the recovery of arrears of road rate the defendant shall not be entitled to raise by way of defence any matter which might have been raised under section 8 (Assessment of road rate) of this Act.

(4) If and in so far as any defence to proceedings for the recovery of arrears of road rate is based on the ground of some informality, defect or error in or in connection with the demand for the sum due, the court shall disregard it, if it is satisfied that the informality, defect or error was not a material one.

(5) As from the date of any demand for a road rate the rate shall, until recovered, be a charge on the hereditament and on all estates and interests therein.

10.—(1) The owner of a special payment hereditament shall Special pay to the committee in respect of the year 1965 and in respect of every subsequent year the amount of the special payment of every subsequent year the amount of the special payment which under the terms of the original conveyance would have been due to the Company in respect of that year and for the purposes of this section a covenant in an original conveyance to contribute towards the cost of maintaining the estate roads or any of them shall be deemed to be enforceable against the owner of a special payment hereditament whether or not apart from this section it would have been so enforceable.

(2) If under the terms of the original conveyance the amount of the special payment is not a fixed annual amount the amount which under the provisions of this section is to be payable in respect of any year shall be such amount as in default of agreement between the committee and the owner of the special payment hereditament in respect of which the payment is due may be determined by arbitration:

Provided that if the owner of the special payment hereditament does not within twenty-eight days after receiving notification from the committee of the amount which in their opinion is due by way of the special payment serve a counter-notice on the committee disputing liability for that amount it shall be deemed to have been agreed.

(3) The amount payable in respect of any year by way of a special payment shall in a case falling within the last foregoing subsection be due at the expiration of one month after the date when it has been agreed, deemed to have been agreed or determined by arbitration (as the case may be) and in any other case shall be due on 1st January.

(4) Subsections (2), (4) and (5) of section 9 (Recovery of road rate) of this Act shall with any necessary modifications apply to the recovery of amounts due by way of special payments as they apply to the recovery of amounts of the road rate and subsection (3) of that section shall also so apply subject to the further modification that for the reference to a matter which might have been raised under section 8 (Assessment of road rate) of this Act there shall be substituted a reference to a matter which might have been raised in any proceedings under subsection (2) of this section.

(5) In fixing the rate poundage at which the road rate is to be levied in any year the committee shall take into account the amount which it is reasonable to suppose will be received by way of special payments.

11.—(1) All moneys received by the committee (other than capital or borrowed money) shall be applied—first in payment of the cost of administering the road fund including any costs incurred under section 8 (Assessment of road rate) section 9 (Recovery of road rate) or subsection (2) of section 10 (Special payments) of this Act;

secondly in payment of interest on moneys borrowed by the committee;

thirdly in paying the cost of maintaining the estate roads and in making provision for defraying the cost of—

(a) replacing or repairing any plant, machinery, vehicle or article belonging to the committee or any part of any such plant, machinery, vehicle or article;

(b) acquiring additional plant, machinery, vehicles or articles;

fourthly in meeting any expenses incurred by the committee in the exercise of any other powers under this Act; and fifthly (subject to any limitations imposed by the next following section of this Act) in setting apart money for a reserve fund formed under that section.

(2) Any credit or debit balance remaining over in any year shall be carried forward to the following year.

12.—(1) The committee may, subject to the provisions of this section, by setting apart in any year out of the revenue derived from the road rate and the special payments such sum as they think fit, form and maintain a reserve fund, for the purpose of meeting any extraordinary claim or demand which may at any time be made upon the committee.

(2) Any sums so set apart for the formation or maintenance of a reserve fund may from time to time be invested and, subject to the provisions of the next succeeding subsection, the dividends and interest arising from such securities may also be invested as to accumulate at compound interest for the credit of the fund.

(3) Whenever, and so long as, the amount standing to the credit of the reserve fund amounts to a sum equal to the price of a road rate of one shilling and sixpence in the pound, a contribution shall be made to the fund, and the interest on dividends on the fund shall not be invested but shall be treated as income.

13.—(1) Any moneys for the time being in the hands of the committee, which are not for the time being required for expenditure for purposes to which such moneys are applicable under this Act, or are otherwise available for investment, may be invested in the purchase of any investments or property of any description, either real or personal, and wheresoever situate, whether or not being investments or property otherwise authorised by law for the investment of trust funds or upon loan upon the security of any property of any description or without security.

(2) Moneys which the committee do not think fit immediately to invest may be deposited at any bank.

(3) The committee may from time to time at their discretion transpose or vary their investments for or into any other investments authorised by this section.

(4) In relation to land, whether freehold or leasehold, acquired as an investment, the committee may exercise all the powers of management, improvement or development which could be exercised by an absolute owner holding the land beneficially.

(5) Nothing in this section shall authorise the making of any investment in contravention of the provisions of the Exchange Control Act, 1947.

14. The committee shall have power to enforce any covenant or obligation by the purchaser in an original conveyance or in a conveyance by the Company of a hereditament which although forming part of the estate is not a chargeable hereditament or a special payment hereditament against the person entering into it and the persons deriving title under him in the like manner and to the like extent (if any) in and to which the Company had immediately before the appointed day power to enforce such covenant notwithstanding that no part of the land which immediately before the appointed day was capable of benefiting from such covenant shall be vested in the committee at the time of the enforcement of such covenant.

Disposal of assets.

15.—(1) In the event of all the estate roads ceasing to be private streets by reason of the fact that they are maintainable at the public expense, then as from 31st December in the year in which the last of the roads so ceases the following provisions shall apply:—

- (a) The committee shall subsist only for the purpose of receiving and recovering any moneys to which they are entitled or which are owing to them and for the purpose of exercising the powers of section 14 (Enforcement by committee of estate covenants) of this Act;
- (b) Any moneys and any other assets held by the committee shall, as soon as is reasonably practicable and after discharging any outstanding debts and expenses of the committee, be transferred to the association:

(2) At any time after the said 31st December the committee may resolve to be wound up and dissolved and upon the winding up and dissolution of the committee as aforesaid this Act shall cease to have effect.

Registration of Act in register of local land charges.

16.—(1) Not later than one month after the passing of this Act it shall be the duty of the Company to give notice of the passing of the Act to the appropriate officers of the councils of the urban district of Egham and of the rural district of Bagshot and thereupon each such officer shall register in the prescribed manner in the register of local land charges a notice drawing attention to the general effect of the Act.
